ELA 12A American Literature MMC

Note: These alignment references are not entirely inclusive, but rather are typical or representative. Many of the content expectations appear in all units and in multiple assignments.

American Literature 12A is structured in three units. The first two units each have two parts. The third unit focuses on The Great Gatsby and is separated into activities associated with the nine chapters in the book. With the exception of The Great Gatsby and one novel selected by the student, all reading selections for the course are found in the Etext. To supplement the readings, the Etext offers opportunities for the student to experience news flashes, make connections with art, read historical background pieces, increase grammar skills, and study vocabulary associated with reading selections. Students interact with each other and their teacher on facilitated discussion boards and interact one to one with their teacher in their Reader's Notebooks. Videos are also used as a vehicle to enrich the student's experience in the study of American Literature. As each of the content expectations is addressed several times throughout the course, the resources column on this page does not list each instance by title. Clicking on the Course Resources tab at the bottom of the page will take the reader to the Course Resources page where all reading selections, videos, etc. used in the course are listed.
